BLACK GIRL

Black girl, black girl, tell me no lies, where did you sleep last night
In the pines, in the pines,
where the sun never shines
To shiver, the whole night through

Her husband was a railroad man, killed at the driving wheel She found his body all crushed & torn under the twisted steel

It caused her to weep, it caused her to moan
It caused her to lose her mind
She thought of how she lost her man,
So brave, so gentle & kind

SOLO

Now she wonders alone beneath the trees, she's happy to mourn her man
And the cold wind blows to chill her bones
And sea mist hangs over her head

Black girl, black girl, Where will you go?
She goes where the cold wind blows
In the pines, in the pines,
where the sun never shines
To shiver, the whole night through (TWICE)
