As dawn with its presence announces the start of a new day. Aldrian we are both here on the road of adventures that my father used to narrate to me. But that my son is up to you to choose to follow me as I did formerly on the long and ancient tracks of western regions further than the ancestral forest of whispers the ones related in the old tales that women used to sing before the venue of the crawling and insinuating shadow. Our march is slow but careful, facing numerous and concealed dangers. At last the black mountain of Erdak unveils where evil in its darkest shape is kept prisoner. You can see the entrance waiting for you in its silence. Now it's up to you to make your way. There you will find the guardian who in fact is your grand father. I replace the latter to carry out the task I have accepted. you will be alone amongst those silent rocks looking out for evil. With your strength and wisdom you will answer that role.

-You have to see this monstrosity on your own to be prepared

-You have to meet my father and allow me to follow you far behind.

-You have to let the latter guide in order for me to replace him.

-You have to accept this role when your time will come.

-But you will have to accept the madness setting down in your mind due to the loneliness.

When your child will be born in your turn you will accompany it on the way so you can replace me to prevent the evil to spread from under the mountain;
