the stains on your face display nothing ever goes your way the flames all in your face you want to make them go away aware of all the mistakes you've made they keep you down, keep you down and you curse yourself

falling down, taking count, keeping sober when everyone else goes out they're on their own, you're on your own making easier to cast the first stone just wait a minute now i say, someone has come to save the day stripping the old away. out of the dark and unashamed now follow through and take your place you made it out, made it out and you love yourself

don't be the bad guy baby, don't think that everyone's like you you see them acting crazy, their eyes are blind like pictures faded (they can't see you) replace their sight with what you hated (make them feel you)
you're on your own, not alone, but on your own you're not alone, on your own, but not alone

(when everyone else goes out)

falling down (they're taking count) keeping sober when everyone else goes out their on their own, you're on your own making it easier to cast the first stone
