I kept control what's on my own
I kept control what's on my own
Take the moment that you shut me out
But in the calm before the storm
I remember what it's all about

I don't blame you this time
I don't blame you this time

I still believe
That anything can come from this love
I still believe
That anything can come from this love

Behind the tears you kept for years
Is a longing that i know too well
If I could pause, contemplate my thoughts
It could take a piece out of this hell

I don't blame you this time
I don't blame you this time

I still believe
That anything can come from this love
I still believe
That anything can come from this love

I don't blame you this time
I don't blame you this time

I still believe
That anything can come from this love
I still believe
That anything can come from this love
I still believe (I still believe)
That anything can come from this love
I still believe (I still believe)
That anything can come from this love
