(5:31)

Walking through the cornfields, sitting down to watch the birds

Stuck out my left ear, to find the sound I thought I heard

When I looked up I saw something, and I didn't want to see

But in a nannosecond, the ugly thing was gone

CHORUS

I ran through the corn, it wasn't helping me

It got into my eyes, then I couldn't see

I kept looking and looking, but the ugly thing was gone

I was so scared, and I was all alone

I tried to find my way home, as fast as I could

But the cornfield was too thick, like it was made of wood

When I looked up I saw something, I really wanted to see

But in a nannosecond, the pretty thing was gone

CHORUS x2
