"Worldly Grace"

Thought sorrow and distress
The suffering we face
I call for your caress
And all your worldly grace
We search for a meaning and something to hold
The dreamers are dreaming but dreams grow old
Love have no reasons for breacking our hearts
Time will keep moving and tear us apart
We burn a rampant path
Like shooting stars at night
We set the world alight
Grow dim and turn to black
We look to the heavens, to show us the way
To give us the answers and make it ok
When all that you posess
Is gone without a trace
I call for your caress
Your bittersweet embrace
You reach for your memories, but everything'S gone
The feeling so heavy, it hurts to go on
The skies or empty, no colors, no sound
The stars or missing and the lights have gone out
You love, you live, you die, you give
Love has no answers and time will tear us apart
All the bounds we make
And everything we touch
Will slowly slip away
Then fade and turn to dust
