Always that you find somebody
In a critical moment of your life
Always that you need a friend
And he's the first who comes to help you
Always that you feel content
And he's with you to celebrate it
Always that they abandon you
And he's with you to give confidence in yourself
Always that all is falling over you and
Covers you with a hope's big top [big top]
Always that you believe you've got everything
That you desired to be happy

Think that sooner or later
Though you don't believe it this will be over
Think that when you esteem someone
Harder will be to leave him
Think that feeling's refuges

Are the weakest ones
Think that the columns where they lean
Are like sand with the greed

Later he's not with you
And you're alone again
With no one to hear
And understand you
Your soul will turn in black
And inside of you
That emptiness will grow on you
And will make you to feel powerful
And impassive more and more
More and more and more and more
[more and more]

So never leave anyone
Who wants to open
The doors of your confidence
Not even when you think it
Will never happen again
Never trust anybody
Never trust anybody else

Just in yourself
[yourself]
