There's a hole in the roof when it rains
Oh I wish that I had an umbrella and there's a cloud hanging low in the room and I can't seem to get out the window

And all the lonely lonely where do they go?
Do they ever come out?
Will they ever come out?
We fade away into our shell we
disappear into our fear oh no
We'll find a better way than today

And I pretend when I laugh at the jokes
Afraid they'll see what they already know
Envious I am, their pleasure
With not a dime, not a care in the world

And all the lonely lonely where do they go?
Do they ever come out?
Will they ever come out?
We fade away into our shell we
disappear into our fear oh no
We'll find a better way than today

There's a whole in the soul where we feel
And we're falling, we're falling to pieces
And we're finding it hard to believe
Maybe come monday morning
We'll find a better way than today

And all the lonely lonely where do they go?
Do they ever come out?
Will they ever come out?
We fade away into our shell we
disappear into our fear oh no
We'll find a better way
We'll find a better way
We'll find a better way than today
