Listen, there's something that you should know,
All the one's, that you love,
have gone away, and left you stone cold.
You're so down, thrown around, you'll never see the
end of it.
Left here, in fear, praying for the end of this.

It's not too late to change your ways,
your life is full of hatred, fear, and pain,
the clock, is slowly ticking away.

You're stuck in the past, living life on the edge,
taking everything for granted, now you're out on the
ledge.
Staring death in the face, your life is flashing in your
eyes,
you lost everything, now you're dead inside.

I'll tell you something, you've got a problem to clear,
Let's face the fact, your the last one
that they wanna see, or wanna hear.
You're lifeless, helpless, you're life's in disarray.
Tossed aside, dead inside, but one thing's left to say.

It's not too late to change your ways,
your life is full of hatred, fear, and pain,
the clock, is slowly ticking away.

You're stuck in the past, living life on the edge,
taking everything for granted, now you're out on the
ledge.
Staring death in the face, your life is flashing in your
eyes,
you lost everything, now you're dead inside.

You're so down, thrown around, you'll never see the
end of it.
Left here, in fear, praying for the end of this.
You're lifeless, helpless, your life's in disarray.
Tossed aside, dead inside, what's left to say?

You're stuck in the past, living life on the edge,

taking everything for granted, now you're out on the
ledge.
Staring death in the face, your life is flashing in your
eyes,
you lost everything, now you're dead inside. x2
