Capture here a moment,
You know less if you don't notice
The way the moon shines down on us tonight.
Don't be so afraid to open up when its so obvious
That you and I are beckoned by this light.

Because you can fool yourself
Into wanting something else,
But you'll be running back to see me;
You can play this game
While memories remain,
I know you're holding out for something real.

Because you can see a spark
Somewhere in the dark,
But only when it's gone will you feel it.
You can feel it start
Someplace in your heart,
But only if you try to believe in.

So take a minute of your time,
Reflect on your life,
See how it feels living life alone again.
And I know you're afraid
To see yourself in that way,
But everytime you try
You step back in the light again.

Because you can fool yourself
Into wanting something else,

But you'll be running back to see me.
You can play this game
While memories remain,
I know you're holding out for something real.

Because you can see a spark
Somewhere in the dark,
But only when its gone will you feel it.
You can feel it start
Someplace in your heart,
But only if you try to believe it

Why'd you keep your love from me?
Why were you hiding out from me?
Come to me, I need you close,
I need your everything the most,
So give to me.

Because you can fool yourself into wanting something else,
But you'll be running back to see me.
You can play this game,
While memories remain,
I know you're holding out for something real.

Because you can see a spark
Somewhere in the dark,
But only when it's gone will you feel it.
You can feel it start
Someplace in your heart,
But only if you try to believe it..
