Big boy, don't be sad,
it's no shame to be that fat.
You loose once again,
doubting if you ever can hold someone tight and do something right and please these people you dislike Â...your biggest dream so far!

And we're so concerned about what others might think.
And how we act in their eyes.
So let me be your friend,
I don't know you well,
but your reputation is alright.
Maybe I won't care if you leave tonight.

And everyone smiles- sometimes
And everyone cries- sometimes
And everyone dies- one time!

Sit down, next to me,
show me your favourite toy
- everyone's got one.
What was the tune your mother sang that could make you happy when you couldn't sleep at night?
I can't remember mine, but I guess
it was similar to yours.

Cute daddy's girl, you should be glad,
you've got all the stuff big boy never had.
And all girls in class want to be your friend.
You only wish there'd be one who does not pretend!

Dad can't hear your whining,
he's hardly home.
And your nanny hates you
cuz she'll never own half of your property, never knowing you'd give it away for a good night kissÂ...
Â...You'll get used to it and make the same mistakes...

Second chances are failed so easily
- just like the first one and the last
- at least they will come for sure.
See, there's no need to worry (about consequences...)
as everything is gonna wither soon.

We won't leave our tracks in time...
Just unimportance and simplicity
we all have in common,
it's connecting us- no one minds.

And in the end
the sun would still be burning.
And in the end
earth would still be turning,
The endless cycle works just perfectly without this grey bunch of pathetic fools.
