You keep on pushing and you?ll get your answer
But it won?t be the one you want it to be
I think it?s funny how we don?t get storms around here anymore
And the rain, when it comes, it tastes like nothing

I want you to remember me
For things I never did
'Cause no one in this world deserves
To see my happiness

I know what it?s supposed to be like to be young
But it is not the way I thought it would be My paranoia functioned like a broken mirror
To distort and destroy any clarity and what?s more

I want you to give back to me
The child I never was
'Cause I believed what I was told
Like everybody does
