Oh I once knew a girl from Virginia
She had eyes like the first day of May
And she talked like she never remembered what to say
Hey, what to say

In the morning she left me her number
And she fled like a bird in the rain
So I sat on the carpet and wondered what to say
Hey, what to say

We crept in the moonlight, she slept by the door
Ooo Virginia no more, no more
And awkward I stumbled I've been there before

Ooo Virginia no more, no more

So I changed down the taste and I made my escape
Out the door onto our separate ways
And I'll see you around if I do figure out
What to say - hey, what to say

We crept in the moonlight, she slept by the door
Ooo Virginia no more, no more
And awkward I stumbled I've been there before
Ooo Virginia no more
