They have just learnt their lessons at their finger tips
Nowadays they go as far as fabricating their own machines
And other high tech equipment
And will be the only ones able to enjoy their performance
The development of their research will lead them
With out reluctance to the extermination of animals on earth

During the unfolding of their operations
They hope to reach a better future life
And an environment more adapted
To the taste and color of the human race

Day after day, they'll improve their inventions
Day after day, they'll destroy wild life

People must not accept that, but instead of showing
Their anger they withdraw and lock themselves

In their solitude and they just want to resolve their own Little worries and they just live with the false Consciousness of happiness

Day after day, they'll improve their inventions
Are we going to close our eyes
Or proving that we are open-minded?
Day after day, they'll destroy wild life

Before the marketing the new product:
Scientist will inject it in the vena of a monkey
It's behavior shows whether the experience succed
The monkey complies with the orders

Now the product:
Wich come from their research are put at everyone disposal
Just packing by the recycling of your household refuse
