The powers that be, we want our own disciples desperate in need of something more to die for, restless to breed, we want our own disciples - powers that be we powers that be we powers that

Powers that be, with skin too thin to cry on, sow what we reap and dock the wings we fly on, scream in our sleep, cause we're our only scion powers that be we powers that be we powers that be

Of the fall of the power, of the tower, the wall, of the feeling

The powers that be, were we the last to know it?
Practice and preach, but were we ready for the lessons to teach we'll be the last to see the

desperate in need of something more to die for,
restless to breed, we want our own disciples -

feeling
