Chorus.

In the lights, at the show
Got me blinded, don't know where to go
And my heart is at home
I'm surrounded but feel so alone
(I just want to scream!)

Would you follow me through the storm?
Would you carry me in your arms?
Or would you let me walk on my own?

What if I never were to make it back again
Would you follow me to hell and back again
Or would you leave me all alone?...

Verse 1:

Story of a youngen with a dream of that fast life
'Cause I could never fit in or get my act right
It was '99, I saw the facts like
I know enough of this binniz and I can rap tight

I'll shit I would write like it's nothing
Skinny kid who had an appetite for destruction
In a little town where everybody was frontin'
I wanted to be the one to get something

So I just pushed through the darkness to catch a lil' light
My inner demons I brought out to capture real life
But patching wounds is harder when you just feel like What you wished for isn't even close to what you will find

Uh, so fuck the world, I'ma get mine
Let 'em sit by as I tear 'em all into bits now
I know I have said it before, only this time
I really mean it, so come on baby, let's fly...

Chorus.

Verse 2:

Nowadays I wake up and look in the mirror, man, I swear I'm going crazy
Used to love this game but now look at what it made me
A wolf's hunger and what started as a day-dream
Soon turned into reality and now I'm waist-deep

Living life as illustrated by Mark Millar
All by myself behind the scenes of a dark thriller
I cough, cough, spit that venom getting sharp, still a Little shy kid but still I feel like I'm Godzilla

Everytime I'm in that booth, I don't need no one
I just look up at this steep road and I keep going Eyes glowing when I'm going into beastmode
As I step into their freakshow with my teeth showing (rawrrr!)

Ready for whatever they send me, I feel so Alive every single time that the beat goes (BOOM)
Don't even care, fuck 'em all They're the reason I've become what you will hear in the song...

Chorus.
