

Jeff Healey Band

"House That Love Built"

Visit "House That Love Built" on MotoLyrics.com

The bar was filled with smoke and lies
I couldn't see a thing, it burned my eyes
I pushed a strange woman off my lap
She had a snake tattooed on her back

The doors opened into the night
The silence kissed my worried life
I heard a song coming from the back
It played over and over again

I stood just around the bend, over the hill
Across the river bed, one step closer to hell, closer to hell
If I forget about my past, forget about my guilt
I go back to the house that love built, that love built That love built, that love built, that love built, yes that love built

I went back to the bar again
And headed straight for the band
I need to remember not to forget
All the life and the love we had

So play that song and make it right
Get me out of this lonely night
Slapped all my money into his hand
Said play it over and over again

I stood just around the bend, over the hill
Across the river bed, one step closer to hell, right at the back door
If I forget about my past, forget about my guilt
I go back to the house that love built, that love built
That love built, that love built, that love built

Let me come inside, baby
Let me come inside into the house that love built
That love built, the house that love built
The house that love built

