I see your face
You see me too, we smile then turn away
What's this game we're playing
It's annoyingly sad to me

We never talk
Going through motions that I never thought
It was doomed from the start,
Should've trusted my heart for once

I told you so, yes I did
I told you so, in my head
I told you so, late at night
I told you so

One day it's great
The next we fight, break up, and then we hate
It's so typically dull, drama, passion, and all that mess

I told you so, yes I did
I told you so, in my head
I told you so, late at night
I told you so

Cuz lately I've been thinking
Back on times we spent together
And I realize they bring a smile
But people change, things aren't the same,
We make mistakes, and reconcile,
But this will have to do for a while

Never again
This book is through, it's locked, and left to dim
Memories fill my mind
as if life's in rewind for me

I told you so, yes I did
I told you so, in my head
I told you so, late at night
I told you so
