No I've never been so bright green
I've never swept so much grey from the streets
And our of your hair

No I've never been so guided
I can focus in on any broken heart
And fill it with sunshine

And the world won't spin another inch
The sky won't blink another day
'Til all the hurt you drag around
Is neatly washed away

No it's never been so easy
I can trace the thread of all the unseen dreams
And paint them with starlight

No there's never been so much love
Blowing over the shoulder of the world
A hurricane

And the world won't spin another inch
The sky won't blink another day
'Til all the hurt you drag around
Is neatly washed away

And all the hurt you're carrying
In carriages behind today
Is neatly washed beyond the sky
And blown into the Sun

I'm always gonna be here
In the time it takes to blink I'm by your side
Holding you close

Forever we're together
Shaping dreams along the road back home
Into the light

And the world won't spin another inch
The sky won't blink another day

'Til all the hurt you drag around
Is neatly washed away

And all the hurt you're carrying
In carriages behind today
Is neatly washed beyond the sky
And blown into the Sun
