"Half A World"

Got a heart full of sky
And a pocket full of stones
Shadows laugh as you labour with hope
They haunt the pictures that were painted with love
The candle dies and our dreams become ghosts

Half a world is coming home
Half a world is coming
Half a world is coming home

Half a world is coming home
Half a world is coming
Half a world is coming home

Heavy heart was full of sky
But sparks
Another life playing out in the dark
With tomorrow comes a mountain to climb
"Just let it go," said another lonely magpie, and I said...

Half a world is coming home
Half a world is coming
Half a world is coming home

Half a world is coming home
Half a world is coming
Half a world is coming home

Close my eyes, click my heels and I'm back home
But it's cold, so cold
Say goodbye, fight the tears back from my eyes
But it's hard letting go

Half a world is coming home
Half a world is coming
Half a world is coming home

Half a world is coming home
Half a world is coming
Half a world is coming home
