Remember that night
We liked to play old board games
Him into trouble and you into risk
Thank God for gravity, he replied

To a question she never asked
Before she made her final move
He stopped motion with his Timex
Grabbed her by the arm and said

Oh my God, oh my God, oh my God, oh my God
Oh my God, oh my God, oh my God, oh my God
Oh my God, oh my God, oh my God

Even this overpass sees more travel than us
I'm reading what to say from a book of violent weather
Your limbs flail to music that only you can hear Make your mouth some headphones and whisper to my ear

Oh my God, oh my God, oh my God, oh my God
Oh my God, oh my God, oh my God, oh my God
Oh my God, oh my God

Oh my, oh my God, oh my, oh my God
Oh my, oh my God, oh my, oh my God
Oh my, oh my, oh my, oh my God
Oh my, oh my, oh my, oh my God

Oh my, oh my God, oh my, oh my God
Oh my, oh my God, oh my, oh my God
Oh my, oh my God
