"Wanna Girl"

I want a girl who makes me feel warm inside.
And doesn't have a problem with cuddling at night.
Makes me feel happy when she comes around,
Keeps me from drinking myself into the ground.

I need someone to keep me up late at night,
Laughing and then we won't have to fight.
I'll go and see her when she's miles away,
She smiling at me it's making my day.

And the story goes on,
It doesn't ever change.
Boy meets a girl,
It ends up the same.
People will laugh and say it wont last long.
We'll walk on by proving them wrong.
And then their minds will think,
Why cant their love run that way?
And they'll all just keep on walking down the line.

As for me now,
I'm just drinking beer.
Riding the bus so I've got someone there.
Have another one, it makes me content.
Roll out of bed, this is already spent.

And the story goes on,
It doesn't ever change.
Boy meets a girl,
It ends up the same.
People will laugh and say it won't last long.
We'll walk on by proving them wrong.
And then their minds will think,
Why can't their love run that way?
And they'll all just keep on walking down the line.

I hate all these girls!

Who just want the fun.
When I'm supposed to get go and run.
Is it a crime to feel this way?
You'll get the whisper and hear what they say, say, say,

say, say, say, say.

And the story goes on,
It doesn't ever change.
Boy meets a girl,
It ends up the same.
People will laugh and say it won't last long.
We'll walk on by, proving them wrong.
And then their minds will think.
Why cant their love run that way? And they'll all just keep on walking down the line.
And then their minds will think,
Why can't their love run that way?
And they'll all just keep on walking down the line.
And they'll all just keep on walking down the line.
