Hello there, how you doin'?
I've got all these thoughts just floating through my brain
They bump and they collide
And cause a flurry of confusion and it's getting on my nerves

I try to hold myself together
Fighting off this mental weather when I can, sometimes
I do
But this shit storm's never ending
And the atmospheric pressure's calling for rain

This is what I've got going on, this is where I belong tonight

It's chaos in the courthouse and the left side's all upset
Because the right side wants a summer home
And knows we can't afford it
I try to mediate between this constant tug o' war machine
Wind up in a never ending game of telephone

There's so much going on
And I just need seven minutes to calm myself back down

Now I forgot where I was, was it me we were talking about?
This is what I feared from the start, I keep falling apart

What's going on, is this where I belong tonight?
What's going on tonight?
What's going on, is this where I belong tonight?
What's going on?

Can't stand, I can't stand the thought of losing
Attention seizes every eye in the world
I can't stand, I can't stand the thought of losing
Everything I ever thought that I knew

This is where I run out of words

That describe how I'm so damn hurt
This is where I fumble and fold
And take what I'm told

What's going on, is this where I belong tonight?
What's going on tonight?
What's going on, is this where I belong tonight?
What's going on tonight?

What's going on, is this where I belong tonight?
What's going on tonight?
What's going on, is this where I belong tonight?
What's going on?

Can't stand, I can't stand the thought of losing
Attention seizes every eye in the world
I can't stand, I can't stand the thought of losing
Everything I ever thought that I knew
