

Moon & Her Mother "The Last Catastrophe"

What we have can only be described
Subscribed to my philosophy
That life's the last catastrophe

So pray for me and for all my friends
Because soon we'll all be dead
With the name in flames
Inscribed on all our heads

And I'm not who I say I am
And I'm not who I say I am

Take my word if only for this time
'Cause life's a compromise from the start
When you were lost in your own heart

And then one day you find yourself submerged
With words you've never heard before
A message you cannot ignore

And I'm not who I say I am
And I'm not who I say I am

I thought I heard you say you made a big mistake
I know you know you can't go back
I thought I heard you say you made a big mistake
I know you know you can't go back
I thought I heard you say you made a big mistake
I know you know you can't go back

And I'm not who I say I am
And I'm not who I say I am
