You feel down, you think you'll drown, you feel gagged and bound and darkness surrounds your eyes wide open but you cannot see and even clairvoyants can't tell you what will be.

To try to fix a heart when you haven't got the tool is like fighting the fire when you're made of fuel. You shouldn't play king when you know that you're a fool and you can't force reason when you know the heart will rule.

Your insecurity is no necessity. You will find your happiness again, my friend! you're not a sinking island.

I disagree it's not a never ending fight, find yourself in this tunnel and looking for light. And should you wonder now which junction is the right to the city of love then don't expect no guide.

And when the storm is over you will rise again, feel kisses in the rain that will ease the pain.
