I may not have the time
To give you what you need
I may not live the life
That you'd like me to lead

But there's something in your smile
That makes me want to try
And it's warmer in the night
With someone to lay by

I know this aint the song
That you been hoping for
This road is hard and wild
But it brought me to your door

I've just one thing to promise
If your heart allows
I've been a rambling shamble baby
But I'm here now

So take me into your bed
Lay down your pretty head
Hate me after I am gone
Cause I won't be here for very long

Now I've just one thing to offer you
If your heart allows
Wanderer he must travel baby
But I'm here now

I may not know the words
That you would like to hear
I may not believe the truth
That you've been holding fear

But there's something on your table
That I can call it home
You know I never have a dime to gamble
Or a cover of my own

I know this aint the song

That you been hoping for
This road is hard and wild
But it brought me to your door

I've just one thing to promise
If your heart allows
I've been a rambling shamble baby
But I'm here now

So take me into your bed
Lay down your pretty head
Hate me after I am gone
Cause I won't be here for very long
