The light by the window is a sign that what we have believed all alone is true and when you wake up so sudden with me on your mind know this is not a game i'll tell you right now what i've known all along now that you're really awake now this is the only thing that matters anymore this is the only thing that will keep me going embracing the feeling that we all belong with small talk and bed sheets and lullaby songs we all are hearing the same voice in our heads but we throw out our needles and just keep our threads because we can't define this as true but that's impossible isn't it?

you tell me you tried to forget you tell me this is not where you take your thoughts from

i tell you you're lying

so set off tonight cause you just might be able to escape set off tonight cause no one is following you what is this night?

the next one will be gone where are You now?
why did i close You off?
it's nights like this i feel You now i'm awake again

it's nights like this i fail You
now i'm awake again

now i'm awake again.
