I should have lied
What is wrong can be right
I should have lied
as everybody else
I should have lied
instead of telling you telling you the truth

All those wicked promises made about being up front and frank really were no stronger than some sugar in the rain you and I are now no more than pieces left from a great pair for the wrong reasons torn part

(chorus)
I should have lied
Instead of tried to make you see through my eyes
how things work for me
I should have lied
I should have lied
Lied instead of telling you
what I really meant
I should have lied

Please release me from this curse of hearing you apologize if you were wrong or not now it doesn't change a thing I was such a fool and now I pay for being so naïve told you everything that I thought was right

(chorus)
I should have lied
Instead of tried
to make you see through my eyes
how things work for me
I should have lied

I should have lied
Lied instead of telling you
what I really meant
I should have lied

(telephone conversation)

You and I are no more than pieces left from fairy tale that broke down

You know it's true

solo

(chorus)
Instead of tried
I should have lied
I should have lied
what I really meant
I should have lied

I should have lied
I should have lied
Lied instead of telling you

I should have lied
I should have lied
Lied instead of telling you
I should have lied
