You wear your hollow crown and I'll wear these scars
from battles won and lost
I will forever know that what I gain is what i deserve.
We'll make our mark, we'll make our stand here,
together tonight.
So breath this purity into your lungs as an antidote to cure your poison
Hear my voice ring true, the future will fall into my hands.
I'll embrace the chances as they come towards me
Was this worth the glory your expectations shall be your downfall
You will not bring me down, tonight I follow in my own footsteps
Do you know what you have caused, do you realise what's been damaged
Now I see your true face against these graves, when I come crashing will you be there to pick me up, will you be there to save me.
Blood will flow between us, broken is thy faith.
This dies tonight.
