

Phillip Sandifer "Who Loves The Lonely Hearts"

Visit "Who Loves The Lonely Hearts" on MotoLyrics.com

Words by Jim Martin/Music by Brian Green

Alone, walking the city streets

The nights they can seem so long

And the world can feel cold when there's no one

To hold you close when the curtains are drawn

Walkin' by hearts beat side by side

In the dark they can see them glow

They just shine through the night

Like a beacon that's bright

With a feeling I used to know

Chorus

Tell me who loves the lonely hearts

Who keeps them warm at night

Who picks them up when their world falls apart

Who loves the lonely hearts

At home I can see her in my dreams

And I don't see where we went wrong

But I still feel the cost from when I loved and lost

My soul to a woman who's gone

But tonight no one seems to understand

That love isn't easy to make

They're just passing me by while I'm dying inside

From a heart that continues to break

Repeat Chorus

Visit Phillip Sandifer page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.