i wake up in the middle of it with my clothes on sweatin thinkin am i ever gonna wake up here again im screamin at the sky for a little meaning im laughing at myself for believing i cant think of the things i used to tell myself i cant deal with questions that you left me with im too young to know, i cant cope is a little bit of clarity to much to be asking for?

its not ok to leave us when no one knows its just not fair to say that, then close the door cos i dont know if youre thinking or dreaming and we're hangin on with not much hope and your children are all screaming
