(All)

Now, if all that ash used to be hash
What the heck time is it now?
Last thing I remember I was looking at my stash
Just before the late late show
Then we threw a couple movies in the VCR
And I remember driving Buddy home in the car
Well, we got not gas so we couldn't have got far...
What the heck time is it now?

(Jian)

Oh, my weary and aching head

(Murray)

You know, I gotta get some thinking done

(All)

I can't remember where I put the bed...

(Dave)

I ain't moved it since '71

(Jian)

I got a real funny feeling I'm about to fall down
I hope I find my way to the ground
I hate to spend the whole night floating around
In the condition I'm in.

(Dave)

First thing in the morning I'm giving myself a break

You kind of get an early warning when you're fingernails and eyelids

ache

Well, it might be closer to the afternoon
But the big point is, I'm gonna do it soon

(All)

There ain't nothing underneath this moon

Will ever make me take another take!

..But what's that on the table?

Why, it looks like a little chunk

I bet old Petey dropped that there

He always was a drunk

Well, it looks so good just sitting there

I believe what I need is a bite of the hair

Doggone stuff is like a breath of fresh air

Think I'm gonna sell the farm (and buy more)

Think I'm gonna sell the farm (find the door)

Think I'm gonna sell the farm.

From the Liner:
With ultimate deference and respect to Mr. Snider, we've appropriated and adopted
this song since first performing our version at a tribute to him in '94.
It has recently been suggested that we cunningly utilize the live performance
of the piece to regularly "score some boo". That hadn't occurred to us.
