(Murray on lead)
Small paper cranes
and wall paper stains
that the pictures can hardly conceal Love letters bent from tears that were spent on a cruel and a shabby ideal But love set fire
to everything
and the flames looked like
angel's wings.
We played our parts
with paper hearts
and love set fire
to everything.
I know that it's wrong
to stay here this long haunted by all of her things I found out too late only fools feel safe
in a house made of jokers and kings But Love set fire
to everything
and the flames looked like
angels wings.
We played our parts
with paper hearts
(All)
and love set fire
to everything.
(accordion and string solo)
(Murray)
I've tried to escape her and these bits of paper but the memories I just can't outrun So I'll keep lighting matches when one of them catches this thing will finally be done
(All)
But Love set fire
to everything

and the flames looked like
angels wings.

We played our parts
with paper hearts
and love set fire
to everything.
