every song is the same thing the authors of textbooks spelled this out in diamonds im aware of attraction and everyones dancing a different take on the old way so if youre in then youre in feel it like a trainwreck come on take a step back i promise nothings holding you out dive deep into city scenes all of your friends and you are celebrities you shot monotony saying "oh we wont fake we wont break down" but you called me out where the nights come cheap and the party is free you make it a fact that theres nothing you wont try once ive got a secret hidden right behind my ego and it grows and it grows but your vanity wont set you free ten million colors but you say that theres not enough look up are you listening? hands up are you watching me intently?

do what i want, do what i say look the same, act the same way keep it moving slow could you fall in love tonight if i asked you to real nice? once or twice three times if i say it just like... if youre a limo
i will be your paparazzi if youre a diamond i will be your pop cliché if youre a love note i will be your yellow songbird but poetry is past tense tension played out yesterday instead we say... when everyone else is alive we are the kids that condescend and draw out boundary lines so ill make an anthem tonight together we can cut these chains and free up all the airways again do what you want do what you like to live your life we are eagles in the sky take flight.
