He knows what he stands for
But they don't understand
Why he chooses to be different

He sees that their laughing
Because he won't join in
At the party Friday night.

They ask him why and he says

That's who I am
forgiven and set free
It doesn't matter what the world may think of me
I got nothing to hide
I know my Identity
Without a doubt I know His blood has covered me
And that's who I am

She's got the perfect boyfriend
The coolest guy in school
But it wasn't meant to be

Her friends can't imagine
Why she'd let him go
Just to keep her purity

Although they may not understand
They ask her why she says

That's who I am
forgiven and set free
It doesn't matter what the world may think of me
I got nothing to hide
I know my identity
Without a doubt I know His blood has covered me
And that's who I am
