You're spinnin' me around,
When I hope to find some ground
I throw my senses to the winds, then I'm lost and found And behind your door, standin' on the floor
I saw my love being thrown away with a faded rose;

Sunday afternoon, I wave to see you soon and in my mind, we're still on the moon but then you ring a bell, my fantasy — it fell for the games you play with me and the tales you tell;

And I was lookin' baby, to make you turn around but you throw away the love we had you gave it away to some one else

I SAW US RIDE A CLOUD ABOVE THE SKIES IN TIME YOU'LL FIND I LONG TO MAKE YOU MINE AND IF YOU HAD YOUR ARMS AROUND ME
I'LL JUST THINK A WORLD NEW FOUND ME

So why do I despair, as if you really care
I lost at love, but you walked away
And in my crimson eyes, was fear in thin disguise Hurt and pain don't spare no one and I've had my share;

I tried to make it work, you made it all in vain
I tried to see it through till we were both insane
I never knew that love, could be so far above
I never felt the tears till they were pourin' like rain;
