Sometimes I can't let go
Sometimes I move too slow
I swear it's not a show
I don't know if I'm tired or crazy
Or if my blood sugar is dangerously low

Sometimes I talk too loud
But you got to hear me out
You never need to doubt
I've never been so fragile
Now that's all I'm all about

Say you won't fade away
Say you will trust me

I didn't see it coming
I've been so used to running
Love is something that
I've never known before

Forgive me if I'm crying
I'm tired of denying
Love is something that
I've never known before
Never known before

So hard to say the things I want to but I will
I feel so open wide, that is pathetic
It's silly to believe somethings are meant to be
But nothing will ever be if we don't let it

Say you will see me back that way
Say you won't lose your faith

I didn't see it coming
I've been so used to running
Love is something that
I've never known before
(Never known before)

Forgive me if I'm crying
I'm tired of denying

Love is something that
I've never known before
(Never known before)

I grew up on my own
Spent so much time alone
That it's taken me awhile
To let somebody in
Show them where I've been and so

You know I want you near me
My dreams are vivid
And I can't see anything
But you so clearly

Say you will always be there

I've never known before
(Never known before)

Forgive me if I'm crying
I'm tired of denying
I've never known before
(Never known before)

Someday were gonna be married
And I know were gonna be happy
I've never known before
(Never known before)

Forgive me if I'm crying
I'm tired of denying
I've never known before
(Never known before)

Never known, never known, never known
Never known before
(Never known before)
