i once believed that there was no one for me until i met you, but i couldn't see how happy i could be until i met you, until i met you, met you standing alone no one to call my own, until i met you holding on my own, and i was colder then stone until i met you, yeah yeah

Until i met me world was empty, until i met you skies were Grey and everything i thought that i believed in i could feel it all slip away
But that was up until the day, until the day i met you

I'm fighting this battle with you by my side and know that i need you and got nothing to hide I'll stand by you always, along for the ride and here in this moment I'm shedding my pride

Until i met me world was empty,

until i met you skies were Grey
and everything i thought that i believed in
i could feel it all slip away,

Until i met me world was empty,
until i met you skies were Grey
and everything i thought that i believed in i could feel it all slip away, till the day i met you met you

Until i met me world was empty,
until i met you skies were Grey
and everything i thought that i believed in
i could feel it all slip away,

Until i met me world was empty, until i met you the sky was Grey
and everything i thought that i believed in i could feel it all slip away, but that was up until the day, until the day i met you
