Chain smoking cigarettes,
Enemies across the table
Wonderin' if I can ever trust anyone again.
We argue through the night,
The restaurant shuts, you catch your flight,
I hail a cab with no idea where home might be.

(Chorus)
We both believed my chance was gone
But ain't it strange how life goes on
A storm can never rage forever
And darkness only lasts 'til dawn

Hotel blinds stay drawn
Nothing seems to make me care
I can't find a reason to comb my hair.
Folks walkin' in the street
Everyone has something to do
My brain won't stop showin' those old movies of you.

Weeks pass.
And your voice sounds strange on the telephone
Strange how smooth and casual my own voice sounds.
I find that I'm listening to
A tune coming over my radio
It makes me think of a guy I knew a while ago
A while ago a while ago.
