

Silverline

"Something Better"

Visit "Something Better" on MotoLyrics.com

You know me well better than I know my own self
I try to pretend but end up falling from what is real

When everything is lost and all of me is broken
The answer lies in you for something better
When I'm letting go you're still holding on
To pull me out into something better something better
with you

I can't erase these scars revealing what I've been through
But they are long since gone and wiped away in me because of you

When everything is lost and all of me is broken
The answer lies in you for something better
When I'm letting go you're still holding on
To pull me out into something better something better
with you

Sometime it takes the fall to look up and see it all
I'm scattered in pieces on the ground
And when it all falls apart I believe you're never far You've carried me through this all along Whoa all along

When everything is lost and all of me is broken
The answer lies in you for something better
When I'm letting go you're still holding on
To pull me out into something better something better
with you
Something better with you

Something better

Visit Silverline page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.