The line's been crossed this time and I, I can't bring myself to say your name out loud. And it doesn't feel the same inside. And it doesn't feel so safe to hide from You. You said your grace would cover me, so I'm begging please give me what I need. It's gotta be right now. It's gotta be right now. This time, tonight, right now. Would You please forgive me? These lies are my demise and I, I can't keep this from You anymore. My heart is beating through my chest, and it's killing me to not confess to You. But Your grace it covers me, so I'm coming clean with everything.
