Born into the edges of town raised without a hero to look up to everybody keeps on dreaming soon they'll have a better living it's easier to think, they never will

Many people search their whole lives long for the one thing they believe will heal them maybe it's all wishful thinking maybe it's a way of clinging to something you believe will come your way so I decided for myself there be no walls, no barricades the harder I try the harder I strive I gotta look forward stepping out of the shade

Here I am
and now there's you
you bring some sense into my life you add some meaning to it all
Here I am
No, I will not forget all that you've done for me just as I needed you

I felt so alone had to be strong to carry on but I knew somewhere out there someone was waiting just like myself born into the edges of a town raised without a hero to look up to lonely days I left behind me precious memories to remind me now that you are here beside me now that you are here to guide me now I found myself cos now there is you
