I see a learned man watching the sky
His mind is forming a question
He trembles when he starts to realize
There is something wrong with how the sun passes the sky
There is something wrong with how the sun passes the sky

The court declared the conviction and the mumbling crowd awaited no reply It expected no contradictory claims
There is nothing wrong with how the sun passes the sky
There is nothing wrong with how the sun passes the sky

Its not the eyes that fool you
Its not the ears that cant hear
It's the darling conceptions of your time that makes you feel this way
that makes you feel this way

Can you feel it too?
The old world measuring the new
Can you feel it too?
The old world claiming the truth

I know you've heard it too
That the questions that we ask ourselves in the passed way of thinking won't solve the problems of the new

Its not the eyes that fool you
Its not the ears that cant hear
that makes you feel this way
that makes you feel this way
