Lady-

And if you want eternity, oh I am not that strong,
But as long as there's you and me,
I'll hold you in my arms.

So won't you be my lady, I'll give you what I can,
Won't you be my lady, and I will be your man,
And I can't give you wealth or fame, or statues in your name,
Oh, but I can give you love.

And I can't promise you the sky, or the ground on which we stand,
But we can walk along its shorelines,
And draw a heart down in the sand.

Won't you be my lady, I'll give you what I can,
Won't you be my lady, and I will be your man,
And I can't give you wealth or fame, or statues in your
name,
Oh, but I can give you love.

Love... Love...Love...

And if that diamond ring don't shine,
I'm a gonna sing you a lullaby,
And if that lullaby ain't sweet,
Oh listen to words I sing.

So won't you be my lady, I'll give you what I can,
Won't you be my lady, and I will hold your hand,
And I could give you joy and pain, and flowers in the rain,
And I will give you love.

Love... Love...Love...

So won't you be my lady, I'll give you what I can,
Won't you be my lady, Oh...
And I can't give you wealth or fame, or statues,
But I can give you love...
