It's a little boy paradise

forget white flesh

just pick a disguise

we've old men in power

and colored teenage girls getting paid to take the golden shower.

A glimpse of reality

a touch of perfection

someone turn my head

can you change

the direction.

Trees don't grow

at the bottom of the ocean

sun don't shine

in the middle of the night don't you wonder sometimes how the stars are stuck

to the sky.

"Chorus"

Cars don't fly

and a house won't swim

but a man can live on if he looses a limb
reading the papers
I sometime think
if we don't stop the fanatics our world gonna sink.

"Chorus"

It's a little boy paradise
forget white flesh
just pick a disguise
we've old men in power
and colored teenage girls getting paid to
take the golden shower
