

Wanda Day "A Stranger"

Visit "A Stranger" on MotoLyrics.com

I heard a child protective report was filed on a man in a distant community. That man had a rap sheet of abuse as long as the interstate.

His victims this time were little girls.
Unaware their fate rested in the mind of a neighbor. Too young to know her fate was held in the arms of a stranger.

No more lullabies. No more good night kisses.
No more I love yous, nor good night wishes.
Dreams stolen from these little girls all
because of acts of a stranger.

Crying tears of a child. Feeling the wounds of an adult. Deep within she carries in her heart the scares caused by a stranger.

Mourning parents missing their little angels today. The past years of holidays filled with past memories. They were taken by the acts of a stranger.
A mom crying, daddy's losing their little girls.
Their sisters looking for their playmates.

Crying tears of a child. Feeling the wounds of an adult.
Deep within she carries in her heart scares caused by a
stranger.

No more lullabies. No more good night kisses.
No more I love yous, nor good night wishes.
Dreams stolen from these little girls all
because of acts of a stranger.

The community lost some angels today. Fate sealed by a man who was a stranger. He took angels on that day from within the mists of our community.

Visit Wanda Day page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.
