Tell me,

What do you see

When you look inside

Not what I see

Not what I see

You just need to

Open your eyes and

You could see

Then you could see

You could see more than

Beyond this door

That traps us here

Inside from near

And look beyond

To the sea, to the pond

And look at yourself

In the water

Yeah, in the water

And

In the reflection

See the deflection

Of a thousand years

And a million souls

So, go to the water

See your reflection

Nothing new

Same old soul

Does that bother you

Nothing at all

Nothing

So tell me,

What do you see

When you look inside

Not what I see

Not what I see

You just need to

Open your eyes and

You could see

Then you could see

You could see more than
Beyond this door
That traps us here
In your sight
Right here
