Never before have two souls joined so freely, and so fast.

For me this is the first time, and the last.

Is this an angel's wish for men?

Never before and never again.

And where to find the words to sing its worth,

This love was bound for heaven, not for earth.

This love was meant to light the stars,

But when we touched, we made it ours.

And would they take it back?

Oh, no, they wouldn't dare!

Why should they take it back,

When there's enough to share with all the world,

And fill the heavens above

With left-over love?

Never before, a love that just keeps growing on and on,

To fill each lover's heart and light the dawn.

Is this an angel's wish for men?

Never before and never again.

Never before and never again.
