If you had a bad time
At one of my parties Well I wouldn't expect to be seeing you soon and that's fine

You have to know what and why Those things make you happy You have to know that a second guess ain't worth the try

Just some words of advice
Maybe you've heard them before but here goes Just be true to yourself if it lands you in hell, well, at least now you know
Loud and clear is your heart, big and bright are the places you might someday go
With one million things holding you down, why you're
one of those things
I don't know, no big deal gotta go

If you're up to your ears
In blood, sweat and wasted years
I'm hoping you're going to open your throat
And just scream

You have to know when, why Which ones miss you when you die
You have to know that a second guess ain't worth the salt in your eyes

Just some words of advice
Maybe you've heard them before but here goes
Just be true to yourself if it lands you in hell, well, at least now you know
Loud and clear is your heart, big and bright are the
places you might someday go
With one million things holding you down, why you're
one of those things
I don't know, no big deal

It just sits on my shoulders you're breaking my neck

We get crazy with age now you're under my bed
And it's dark all the time, all the time

Just some words of advice
Maybe you've heard them before but here goes
Just be true to yourself if it lands you in hell, well, at least now you know
Loud and clear is your heart, big and bright are the
places you might someday go
With one million things holding you down, why you're
one of those things
I don't know, no big deal here I go.
