Your life it ends with a crash
It's over now way to fast
You never knew that it was so short

You're digging deep inside yourself
You never knew your own wealth
You're digging deep to find some pity

Fake all your promises
Forget what your conscience says
Just another number in a long line of no one

Just pretending that were ending
Hating what we are
So frustrating, suffocating
How did we get this far?

Your life beings way too fast
You can never change your past
Living life in your yesterday

You're digging deep inside yourself
You never knew your own wealth
You're digging deep to find some pity

Fake all your promises
Forget what your conscience says
Just another number in a long line of no one

Just pretending that were ending
Hating what we are
So frustrating, suffocating
How did we get this far?

Just pretending that were ending
Hating what we are
Just pretending that were ending
Hating what we are

Are we really that far
That we can't even see
All the truth from the lies

In this man made disease

That is killing us and is filling us
Willing us to believe
That is killing us and is filling us
Willing us to believe
That will always be

Just pretending that were ending
Hating what we are
So frustrating, suffocating
How did we get this far?

Just pretending that were ending
Hating what we are
So frustrating, suffocating
How did we get this far?

Looking up and breaking down
I never know what's going down
Looking deep inside myself
I've never known anything else
